JOHN L. CRAIN, Ph.D.
Educational Leader

After more than 35 years in higher education, Dr. John L. Crain will retire as President of Southeastern Louisiana University at the end of the current academic year.

A native of Franklinton, La., Crain became the 14th president of Southeastern in February 2009 after having served as Interim President from July 2008. He guided the university through several years of sizable state budget reductions, the COVID-19 pandemic, and multiple hurricanes, including Hurricane Ida, which caused significant damage to the Hammond campus and surrounding region.

During his tenure, Southeastern's campus has seen major facility improvements, including the completion of a new student union and new campus student residential facilities, as well as several new and renovated academic buildings. Multiple new academic programs were launched along with new academic support and campus life initiatives.

The Lion Athletics program has seen competitive successes by multiple teams, as well as strong academic achievement by student athletes. The Southeastern Foundation also saw impressive growth, as private fundraising took on a greater sense of urgency during the period of state funding challenges.

Prior to being named President, Crain served seven years as Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Southeastern and before that as a faculty member in the Department of Accounting, including two years as President of the Faculty Senate and two years as Department Head.

Crain led within the broader arena outside of Southeastern as well. He provided guidance on the Louisiana Board of Regents Master Plan National Advisory Panel Workgroup on Retention and Completion, was a member of the Louisiana Blue Ribbon Commission on Educational Excellence, and chaired the Accounting Education Issues

Committee of the Society of Louisiana CPAs.

In addition to becoming an effective leader, Crain also made many esteemed scholarly contributions, authoring 63 articles in academic journals and delivering at least 35 academic conference presentations. He also served on review boards for reputable journals, including the Accounting Educator's Journal and the Delta Business Review.

MACE BEARER

Erin Horzelski
President of the Faculty Senate

THE MACE and the PRESIDENT'S CHAIN

At Southeastern's 50th Anniversary Celebration, two new symbols of solemnity and dignity were added to the usual academic regalia used at official university academic functions—the Mace and the President's Chain. These two devices, both beautiful original works of art, were donated to the University by the Southeastern Alumni Association.

The Mace is a magnificent wooden staff crowned by a four-faceted block which bears bronze casts of the University's insignia on each side. A little over four feet long, it is carried by the Mace Bearer and is placed on the stage during official University functions.

The Mace originated as a weapon in the Middle Ages. Archers and other unmounted warriors used it as a hand arm. Sergeants at arms, who were guards of kings and other high officials, also carried maces. Gradually the mace gained a ceremonial character and became a symbol to denote authority.

The Mace Bearer is designated by the President of the University. The ceremonial Mace symbolizes the dignity and authority of the University. The President's Chain holds the seal of the University which is cast in bronze. Around the satin ribbon holding the seal are platelets of bronze. Each platelet bears the name of a former president of Southeastern and the years he served. Chains of similar design have been worn for centuries during ceremonies at universities. Traditionally these chains are works of art. While most academic chains represent a part of the University, Southeastern's chain is unique in that it honors past presidents of the institution.

COMMENCEMENT COMMENTARY

The use of academic degrees is based on the ancient guild system, in which an apprentice, after serving his time, obtained a testimonial of his skill and his license to practice his trade. The Master Of Arts was admitted by his superiors to begin—that is, to commence, and from this terminology the word “commencement” for describing the ceremonies at the end of the academic year is derived.

The term “bachelor” was originally used to describe a man who was an assistant, and in medieval times generally denoted the apprentice as opposed to the “master” workman. Hence, the terms “Bachelor” and “Master” to denote levels of academic achievement have been handed down through the centuries. There is mention of the “doctors of the different faculties” at Oxford in the year 1184, so the term “Doctor” was evidently used then, and is still used today, as a title for those possessing the highest degree of learning.

The custom of wearing a distinctive dress for academic ceremonies goes back to the Middle Ages, when people dressed in keeping with their class: nobility, clergy, or third estate. The clergy were the literate class, hence, early academic costume was that of the church. A heavy gown, usually black or dark brown, was worn at all times. Hoods and capes were also necessary during the European winters because the buildings where scholars lived, studied, and taught were cold. The cap, originally round, became the present Oxford style, which, according to some authorities, was fashioned after the master workman's mortar board. The tassel was added during the 18th century.

In 1985, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading educators, presented the Intercollegiate Code, which regulated the design of gowns and hoods and the colors and materials to be used. Its subsequent adoption by more than 4,000 U.S. colleges and universities has given America an impressive yet extremely simple method of signifying scholastic honors.

Three types of gowns and three types of hoods have been devised for bachelors, masters, and doctors respectively, although the hood is seldom used with the bachelor's gown. The square caps remain the same except that the doctor's may be made of velvet and have a tassel of gold. Tassels of the color of the wearer's academic field may also be used for master's, doctor's, and, in some cases, bachelor's. The bachelor's gown is distinguished by its pointed sleeves which fall to the knee. The master's gown has closed bay sleeves which are square at the end and extend well below the knee. The doctor's gown has full round open bell-shaped sleeves, is faced with velvet, and has three bars of velvet on each sleeve.

Master's and doctor's hoods are lined with silk of the color of the college or university granting the degree and bordered with silk or velvet of the color that represents the department of learning in which the degree was obtained. Colors of the academic majors are:

Arts and Letters ..... white (English, Foreign Languages, Psychology)	Engineering ..... orange
Science ..... golden yellow (Biological and Physical Sciences, Mathematics, Industrial Technology)	Economics ..... copper
Commerce ..... drab (Business and Accounting)	Agriculture ..... maize
Veterinary Science ..... gray	Fine Arts ..... brown
Pedagogy ..... light blue (Education)	Library Science ..... lemon
Theology ..... scarlet	Speech ..... silver
Law ..... purple	Social Sciences ..... citron (History, Government, Sociology, Geography, Social Welfare, Law Enforcement)
Medicine ..... green	Physical Education ..... sage green
Music ..... pink	Family and Consumer Science ..... maroon
Philosophy ..... dark blue	Nursing ..... apricot

The academic procession will march in the following order: (1) the Mace Bearer, (2) the President and Vice Presidents of the University and other platform guests, (3) the faculty in order of academic rank, and (4) the candidates for degrees preceded by the deans of the colleges or school.

Honor graduates are wearing gold stoles which have been given to them by Southeastern Louisiana University. The levels of recognition of honor graduates are: With Distinction-CUM LAUDE—3.50. With High Distinction-MAGNA CUM LAUDE—3.70. With Highest Distinction-SUMMA CUM LAUDE—3.90.
